TO SET ASIDE CONVEYANCE

Creditors of Mrs. Jessie Preston Petition Superior Court to that Effect

Recently Mrs. Jessie Preston of this city, inherited valuable property bequeathed to her in the will of her mother, Mrs. Mary White of Lawrence, who died in Washington. After she will had been probated Mrs. Preston had the property given to her, which consists of valuable real estate in this city and at Little Boar's Head, North Hampton, conveyed to Joseph P. Bell of Andover, Mass.

Today County Solicitor Ernest L. Guntill, counsel for various creditors filed a petition with the superior court to set aside the conveyance of property made by Mrs. Preston. The petition alleges that the conveyance is made for the purpose of delaying and defrauding her creditors. In connection with the petition suits are brought by various creditors to the extent of $1500. The action is returnable at the April term of the superior court.

LOCAL MERCHANTS MAKE ELABORATE WINDOW DISPLAYS

Spring Opening Under Auspices of Board of Trade Finds Stores in Gala Attire.

The show windows of the Merchants of Portsmouth, never, even in the holiday season, presented a handsomer sight than they do today, in response to the Board of Trade's invitation to hold a Spring Opening with the added attraction of presenting a prize to the most attractive window in the city.

It is doubtful if anywhere else in this country in a city of this size, could there be found such an attractive array of window displays as are being shown. Attractive from the way the goods are displayed and more attractive on account of the quality of the goods, for it is an established fact that the local merchants lead everybody outside of the big cities in their lines.

Practically all of the windows were finished last evening, although it was midnight before many of the decorators were satisfied and willing to go home, so that no complete list of the decorations could be obtained last night. Those that were finished were certainly very fine and the people of the surrounding towns who will come here today in response to the invitation of the Board of Trade can not help being greatly pleased. The delegates to the Methodist Conference going to the Methodist Conference will also have an opportunity to see what Portsmouth merchants can do when called upon to make a showing.

The windows will remain as they are for a week's time and it behooves everybody to at least make a trip around the different stores and see the displays and if one can do this and not be tempted to purchase, there is only one answer, he has not the price.

W. G. C. Kimball who has been located in St. Louis and Boston in the leather business has arrived here where he may locate his plant. He is now busy with some new experimenting in a tanning process in part of the Roland M. Baker plant. The work, it is understood, has so far been most encouraging.

Should this new enterprise prove successful it will add quite a few employees.

NEW RATE EFFECTIVE. Will Assess Poll Taxes Under New Method.

On the first of the month the new poll tax law becomes operative. This is the first time that the poll tax has been fixed at a definite figure and the effect of the law will be different in different places.

The poll tax is set at $2. Up until this time a poll has been taxed as a piece of property worth $100 and the rate of course, has varied with the rate on other property. The poll tax in this city has been in the neighborhood of $2.20 in late years and the new law means a slight decrease.

In some cities and towns the tax rate has been about $2 anyway so that the change in law has no practical effect upon the taxation and revenue. There are also many places where the rate has been less than $1 on $100 valuation and in such places the burden of the poll tax payer is more than doubled.

The law was made a year ago. Every male person must be assessed a poll tax of $2 except paupers, insane persons and others exempted from all taxation. Each year after the first of April the assessors of taxes must make out a list of all such persons who have no property taxable and give them to the tax collector to collect $2 a head from.

The members of the high school party who journey to Washington, Philadelphia and New York are expected to arrive home on Sunday morning.

Chaffeur Slays Young Woman Who Had Jilted Him, Also Her Employer

Peabody Mass, April 3—Pearl Frost, housekeeper for Walter P. Hills and George LeFave, a chauffeur, who had been paying attention to her, quarreled today with the result that both the young woman and her employer were shot and killed. LeFave after holding a squad of officers at bay with a revolver was placed under arrest, charged with murder.

The shooting occurred at the Hills' home. LeFave had called there to see Miss Frost who received him in the dining room, while Mr. Hills conversed with Chester Brown, a neighbor, in the sitting room adjoining.

Soon loud tones were heard from the dining room, then sounds of a scuffle and hills hurried to investigate the trouble. As he opened the door three shots were fired and Miss Frost fell to the floor dead. According to the police hills rushed toward LeFave, who brandished a revolver and a moment later hills was shot three times, the weapon being held to his right temple when the first shot was fired. His right arm was broken and a finger of his left hand was shot away. Hills lived an hour.

Brown when he heard the shooting ran to the police station nearby and a small squad of officers reached the house quickly. They were met at the door of the dining room by LeFave, who they say pointed a revolver at them saying that he had reloaded it and would shoot if they advanced. Officer W. J. Wilgala was sent around to a rear door while the police in front parleyed with the chauffeur.

LeFave was ultimately prevailed upon to put his revolver in his pocket then officer Wilgala pounced on him from behind and he was taken in charge.

Jealousy is believed to have led to the shooting of the young woman. She was 20 years old. Hills was 55 years of age and a widower.

The police said LeFave would not talk about the shooting and that he refused to consult counsel.

Mrs. Edward Ingalls, Mother of the Frost girl told the police tonight that her daughter had complained recently that she was afraid of LeFave because he had threatened her.

"Last night" said Mr. Ingalls, "Pearl asked me to accompany her to work this morning, as she had quarreled with LeFave and he had refused to take back presents that he had given her. He threatened to get her unless she allowed him to call. I had intended to report the matter to the police tonight, but now it is too late."

LeFave is 31 years of age. His wife died several years ago.

LeFave was a widow. His wife was Grace Porter of Hamilton. They were married about ten years ago and she died seven years ago. They had one son six years old, who is now living with LeFave's sister in Worcester. LeFave's mother is Mrs. Stephen E. Smith of West Somerville. He was a native of Portsmouth, N. H., but had lived in Peabody for several years. For two years past he had roomed at Patrick J. Murphy's, 43 Central street.

Last summer LeFave was employed as a chauffeur by J. H. Palmer, a Boston business man. In driving his employer to and from the Corinthian Yacht Club at Beverly, LeFave passed the farmhouse of Miss Frost's uncle, Frank Foster, near Devereaux station, where she was working during the warm months as housekeeper.

He had a signal arranged with the girl and when she heard him sound it on the auto horn she would run out and wave her hand as he drove past. This was before the engagement was broken.

Mrs. Ingalls, mother of Miss Frost, told the police tonight that her daughter had complained recently that she was afraid of LeFave, because he had threatened her.

"Last night" said Mrs. Ingalls, "Pearl asked me to accompany her to work this morning, as she had quarreled with LeFave and he had refused to take back presents that he had given her. He threatened to get her unless she allowed him to call. I had intended to report the matter to the police tonight, but now it is too late."

Mrs. Chester Brown who lived next door to the Hills residence, and who was a friend of Pearl said last night that LeFave after the girl refused to marry him, was returning presents she had given him one night and when he came to a picture of the girl he thrust a knife blade through it, near the heart, according to the story Pearl told her later. This was the beginning of the girl's fear of his threats.

Prayed on His Mind

At another time when he was pleading with pearl to give him another chance to regain her lost affections the girl's mother said tonight, he told Pearl: "If you quit me I will go to the dogs." He gave her the engagement ring on her 20th birthday, the mother said.

Friends of LeFave said that his religious had preyed heavily on his mind of late and that he had been seen working in his repair shop as late as 1.30 in the morning in an endeavor to forget his troubles.

Several of his friends say that they had never known that he drank heavily. They know him as a quiet, industrious man.

Jealous of Others

The police were informed tonight that LeFave had threatened to kill Timothy Mahoney, another chauffeur, because he had walked home with Pearl one night, and there was another report current that the girl had jilted LeFave for a Danvers young man, but friends of the girl denied that she had been keeping company steadily with anyone since her engagement with LeFave was broken.

Regarding the above statement that LeFave hailed from Portsmouth, N. H., allgent inquiry failed to discover that he ever lived here or anyone that knew him.

POLICE COURT.

James Woodbury of Rye was before the court today on a charge of drunkenness. Previous to his hearing he informed the police that he obtained liquor at the Commercial Hotel and the proprietor Mrs. Hannah McSweeney was called into court. The court could find no case against her as Woodbury who gave several names contradicted himself several times and Judge Torrey was not satisfied with the evidence. Mrs. McSweeney was discharged.

Interest in the New Hampshire Methodist Conference being held in this city still continues without any abatement and at the opening of the fourth day's session there was the usual large attendance. The meeting was opened at 8 o'clock by Rev. J. O. Randall of Philadelphia and there was a discussion relating to the care of probationers and the credentials of a Christian life. At the close Rev. R. Dr. Dorion of Boston moved an amendment that this report be printed in the minutes and the added expense be met from the treasury of the trustees.

The Bishop recommended classification and condemnation by an account. Dr. Sanderson and R. T. Walcott of Manchester, Dr. Blake and Olla Cole of Haverhill spoke by consent. Dr. Blake offered a substitute motion that a committee be appointed that should have charge of condensing, classifying this report. The motion was carried.

Dr. A. G. Kypell, recording and field secretary of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension, was introduced and gave an address.

Dr. A. A. Parker of Kansas, India, then addressed the Conference as the representative of the Board of Foreign Missions.

Dr. Edgar Blake of the Board of Sunday Schools was called, but declined to address the Conference because of the lack of time for the business session.

Rev. William Warren read the report of the committee on "Sustentation," stating that an increase had been made this year of $122 over last year. The report was accepted and two members added to the commission to be appointed by the Bishop.

REVENUE FALLING OFF UNDER TARIFF BILL

Washington, April 3. The Underwood-Simmons tariff act went into effect six months ago today, and pressing indications are that it will not reduce customs revenue any more than was estimated in Congress at the time of its passage. According to the treasury's March statement, customs revenues amounted to about $26,000,000 which is about $1,500,000 less than the Payne-Aldrich law produced in March, 1913. That was a marked increase over February, when revenues fell over $10,000,000 compared to the same month of 1913. The average monthly decrease in customs revenue for the six months the Underwood-Simmons act has been in operation is placed at about $1,000,000, but officials were confident that this would be reduced in the coming six months. The annual reduction was estimated at about $15,000,000 a year. Despite reports of an unexpected failure of income tax offset the difference in customs, officials were inclined to believe that the Government would find its original expectations realized.

NEWS of the MOVIES

Norma Phillips, "Our Mutual Girl."

MISS NORMA PHILLIPS, who plays leading roles for Mutual films and is known as "Our Mutual Girl," is now doing weekly reels, or chapters, on life in New York city. They are true to life and interesting. Lillian Gish and Blanche Sweet are among the most beautiful young women engaged in motion picture work. They are under twenty years of age and at one time or another played child parts on the legitimate stage. They appear in Reflux films.

Borke's Drift, one of the most celebrated battles in English history, has been made the subject of a two reel drama by Edison. In the actual fight 4,000 Zulus were held at bay by a company of eighty British soldiers whom they attacked. When preparing to make this film down in Jacksonville Fla., Director Bixby could not get together a large enough force of men for the battle scenes. So he adopted the classic sandwich man as a last resort and succeeded in that way in gathering a great crowd.

A gorgeous three reel feature by the "Flying A" company under Lorimer Johnston has been evolved on the basis of Schumann's "Tramper." The action is immense, and the interest is retained throughout the production.

The strategies of hunting wild geese in California offers a subject for a two reel picture which the California Motion Picture corporation has released.

What is probably one of the most daring attempts to use wild animals in pictures is George Kline's latest masterpiece from the Cines studios in Rome. The title of this six part feature is "Between Savage and Tiger." Three royal Bengal tigers, brought from Calcutta to Rome for the purpose, meet death in the manufacture of the film.

Louise Glaum has joined Harry Edwards' company at the Universal and is playing opposite Universal Ike. Miss Glaum was leading lady in the Nestor comedy company for a long time. Later she took leads with Carlyle Blackwell.

"Classmates" (K. & E. Biograph, four reels) is a film dramatization of Whittell Smith's famous play of the same name. The story is condensely told, the characters well separated and the action fast. The photography is good.

The arena scene in "The Triumph of an Empress" (World's Film Corporation) by the Savoy company actually rivals the one in "The Last Days of Pompeii," while the banquet setting and its action scene better than the one in the famous production of "Quo Vadis."

AUTO CHEMICAL SAVES TOWN

A large share of the business part of Kittery, Kittery, owes its present condition to the Studebaker "25" roadster of Chief Harvey of the fire department in Coffeyville which carrying its outfit of two tanks of chemicals, made the run of six and one-half miles over a rough road in nine minutes and arrived just in time.

FIVE PERCENT NOT ENOUGH FOR RAILROADS

Washington, April 3.—W. C. Maxwell, general traffic manager of the Washash, at the hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission today on the proposed increase in freight rates, declared that a 5 per cent advance would only afford partial relief to the carriers and gave the situation for a time. "The situation in Central Freight Association territory," he said, "is bad and growing worse."

"I am confident that the 5 per cent advance would not meet our needs. It would save the situation for a time, but I am satisfied that most of our Central Freight Association roads will not be able to survive under existing rates. A 5 per cent advance would be insufficient and for railroads in our territory to keep out of the hands of receivers and prosper it would be necessary to readjust and bring up to a higher level all rates. If the advance should be granted it would afford for the relief. That should be followed by joint action of the Interstate Commission and authorities of the various states for a readjustment of the entire rate situation in Central Freight Association territory."

POULTRY ON THE VILLAGE LOT

A Good Revenue From a Small Flock
KATE ST. MAUR

With 150 square feet of ground suitable for poultry, and devoting half an hour every night and morning, with an extra two or three hours on Saturday, you should be able to add $200 or $300 to your income. My authority for this is my knowledge of a bank clerk whose home is beyond the city limits, who made $800 last year from a flock of 100 hens and of a post mistress who made $462, though neither of them gave more than a few hours a week to poultry, so it seems safe to say that any one with ordinary common sense and industry can make $300 or $400. Any sort of old house and coops won't do. A person who starts with very little capital will find it advisable to buy three good birds rather than twenty poor ones and make a clean, new house, even if it's only 3 by 6 feet, rather than put up some vermin infested shanty. This is the time to lay the foundation of winter eggs and next year's profits, so if you have a flock of any of the popular breeds hatch every one. But, if your flock consists of mongrels, feed well and get all the eggs you can, sell them for table use and with the proceeds buy eggs from some reliable dealer, or, what is better, select a few old birds and buy a small incubator. There is a good little metal machine costing $6 which holds fifty eggs. First-class brooders from the same firm cost the same.

Feed Only the Best

Chicks should have nothing to eat for forty-eight hours after leaving the shell. The reason is the yolk is absorbed immediately before a chick breaks through the shell and must be allowed time to digest and pass through the bowels before any foreign substance is introduced or indigestion and diarrhea will result.

Commercial chick feed is the best feed, being a mixture of seeds and finely broken corn, specially put up for chicks. Once a day give a little hot cheese or stale bread soaked in milk and squeezed dry. When confined to brooders, vegetable material must be added, such as lettuce leaves or tops of green onions chopped fine. Keep clean water, ground charcoal and fine grit always before them and remember, with really good birds your profits come in the spring from selling eggs for hatching or for day old chicks. Indeed, you should not begrudge the utmost thought and care to your poultry in the growing stage, for it is then you are building the foundation for a profitable poultry plant.

PLANTING TREES

How They Beautify, Protect and Enrich Their Owners
MEADE FERGUSON

In the economy of man and of nature trees are of great value not only through the products which they yield as food and materials for industrial purposes, but through the influence which they exercise upon climate, soil and the healthiness and beauty of a community. The village home to be beautiful and complete must have shade trees and, if space permits, fruit trees. The farm from an economic standpoint must have trees for shade and protection from the winds and to produce wood for the various uses, such as building, manufacturing tools, burning, etc. Whenever a soil cannot by any ordinary process be rendered fit for corn or grass and will bear trees it may be planted as the only, perhaps the best, mode of turning it to profit. There are some tracts of thin, stony or gravelly soils covered with no growth of any value which will pay for no improvement whatever except starting a tree growth.

In the fall and early winter, after the crops are harvested and the fall seeding finished, one could utilize some spare time to no better advantage than planting trees. There is always room and a suitable place for them. Landlords could easily effect an agreement between themselves and their tenants under which the tenants would be required to plant and care for trees upon suitable areas each year.

A Lack of Ornamental Trees

In driving through the country and particularly in and around small towns one observes with regret neglected shade and ornamental trees, of which there are so many beautiful specimens. Perhaps a short list may encourage a trial. For flowering trees there are the double flowering crab, English hawthorn, pink horse chestnut and catalpa. For striking characteristics there are the camptocladia, weeping beech, variegated elder, River's purple beech and the linden.

Nothing adds more to the welfare of a family than fruit, besides which there is pride and joy in producing it at home. Think of the big red apple and the long winter evenings of your childhood. Then go out and put the old orchard in shape, plant new trees to take the place of the old and be happier. If you have only a town lot and not space for the standard sorts plant dwarf apples and pears. They occupy little room and will bear in two or three years. Anyway plant trees every season, for they will grow while you sleep, add comfort to your old age and make your children glad, all reasons worth consideration.

MY ANGORA GOATS

How They Pay the Mortgage
GEORGE H. PACY

Angora goats are profitable wage earners. They clean up underbrush, destroy weeds, yield profitable meat and mohair and improve soil fertility on a minimum of feed and care. They are also naturally browsers and relish underbrush and weeds in preference to luxuriant pasturage. Without feed other than what they rustle, grade Angoras will produce from three to six pounds of mohair per animal each year, which sells on the market at from 35 to 60 cents per pound. Well cared for pure breeds often yield as high as ten or twelve pounds of mohair to a shearing, while fleeces of special luster and over fifteen or eighteen inches in length sometimes bring as high as $5 or $6 per pound.

The meat of the Angora is tender, well marbled and nicely flavored, and many consumers eat goat meat and imagine that they are consuming lamb or mutton. On the grade fat Angoras sell for from 4 to 6 1/2 cents a pound. The mature of the goat yields that of sheep in tending and milking.

First Aids to Farmers

Angoras are first aids to farmers who desire to inexpensively subdivide land. Twenty-five or thirty goats pastured on 100 acres of bush land will effect wonders. In a couple of years without reclaiming the idle land, it is best to rotate the goats from one small field to another so that the animals are constantly gaining in live weight and at the same time killing out the undesirable growth. Angoras will stand on their hind legs and browse all the leaves and twigs within their reach. They uniformly graze over a field so that when they are through with the task of cleaning the land the field is in shape for plowing.

Grade Angoras range in price according to age, weight and condition. Farm men can usually buy good crossbred flocks at from $2.50 to $5 per animal. Pure bred bucks cost from $40 to $50 apiece, while full blooded does sell for from $8 to $20 per animal. The utility of the Angora hinges around his ability to perform valuable work at low price costs. Goats abhor wet or swamp land as well as inclement weather. The animals are reliable barometers inasmuch as they invariably scent the approaching storm and head for shelter.

Millions of acres of brush land that today are useless could be brought in to profitable use if the landowners would keep flocks of goats as land cleaners. The winter care of goats is similar to that of sheep. An open shed facing the south, provided with plenty of bedding and perfectly dry, will provide ample protection, while oats, roots and hay will supply sustenance.

THE VEGETABLE GARDEN

How Can We Afford to Be Without It?
E. PARKER

There is an important economical side to this question of a garden. Beef for instance, in its various forms is notoriously expensive, especially where it is eaten, twice or three times a day, whereas beans, peas, spinach, etc., when served with meat would make up half the amount eaten thus reducing the cash cost of the whole. And the impression that a vegetable garden requires much time and care is such an erroneous one! Two or three hours a week will suffice for a garden 450 by 100 feet, which is capable of producing fruit and vegetables enough for a family of six, provided the rows are three feet apart so that a horse may be used.

Laying Out the Garden

In laying out such a garden the rows should be run north and south, for planted thus vegetables receive the greatest amount of sun. The first four rows should be six feet apart, and the first of these might contain twelve currant and twelve gooseberry bushes set six feet apart. In the second row plant a hundred raspberry canes three feet apart, with two canes at each place. The third row will be for strawberries and will hold two plants grown in hills set one foot apart, no runner being allowed to

CREW OF CRUISER TACOMA GIVE A FAREWELL BALL

The crew of the cruiser Tacoma, which is to sail from this yard some time next week, gave a farewell dance to their friends at Freeman's hall on Friday evening, and it was a decided success.

The hall was given on short notice but the crew are a lively bunch and they made rapid work of the arrangements. The hall was very prettily decorated with the national colors and the ship's pennants.

Marden's orchestra of ten pieces furnished most excellent music for the dancing which was enjoyed from nine to one o'clock.

The grand march was led by Lieut. McSherry, U. S. N., and Miss Gertrude Brille, followed by Mr. A. W. Fredericks and Mrs. Mosheehy and seventy-five couples.

The following were the list of dances: Grand March, Call to Arms and Waltz, Garden of Love.

To Our Captain: Waltz, Love's Dreamland. To our Guests: Two-Step, Under Five.

To Our Lady Friends: Waltz, Espana. To Wardroom Officers: Two-Step You Have Got to Take Me Home Tonight. Junior Officers: Waltz, Dreams of Childhood.

grow. The next thirteen rows will be three feet apart and may be planted to the following vegetables in this order given: Asparagus plants, fifty each year seedlings, set three feet apart in the row; parsnips, fifty feet; then a hundred feet of onions, of which twenty-five feet may be young sets for early summer; beets and lettuce, fifty feet; early cabbage, a hundred feet late cabbage, a hundred feet; cauliflower, fifty feet; peas, three full rows; corn, four full rows; tomatoes, a hundred feet; beans, fifty feet; okra ten feet; then fifty feet more of string beans and 150 feet of dwarf lima beans. The remaining four rows should be eight feet apart to allow the vines to spread. In the first row plant twenty-three muskmelons six feet apart, then a row of cucumbers six feet apart, five eggplants and ten early squash, all six feet apart. The next row may be planted to eight Hubbard squash and twelve rhubarb plants, six feet apart, and the last two rows may very properly be given over to herbs and flowers for cutting.

It is frequently forgotten that a great many people abroad, notably the drawers of water and hewers of wood, live almost entirely on vegetables, considering meat a luxury only to be indulged in once a week, while we in America, having the most delicious and greatest variety of vegetables grown anywhere, discard them for meat.

AN EXCELLENT CONCERT AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

The Methodist church was packed so that standing room was at a premium on Friday evening, the occasion being a concert given by the Lotus Male Quartette assisted by Mrs. Rosell Knapp Breed, and it was not only the largest crowd but the best concert that has been given by this famous organization.

The members of the quartette were all in good voice and apparently doing their level best for this church has employed them so often, and in laying out the program it was with the idea of bringing out the best. Miss Dorothy Parker was the accompanist and her beautiful playing added in no small measure to the excellent program.

Miss Rosell Knapp Breed of Boston, the reader, is no clever an artist as has been heard in this city. Her selections gave her talent a wide range and she was obliged to respond to several encores. She is a decided humorist and her character sketches were all very funny and remarkably well presented. She has a fine dialect and uses it to perfection in some of her sketches.

All of the members of the Lotus Quartette are too well known here to need special mention.

The following was the program:

Way ..... Brackett.

Encore (a) Nellie Gray.

(b) Dried Apple Pies.

Lotus Quartet.

The Wetherell Wedding. .... Plisko.

Encore: "Who's Afraid?"

Rosell Knapp Breed.

The company were:

Quartette, Robert Martin, First Tenor, William Hiles, Second Tenor, Nelson Raymond, Baritone, Frank Canell, Bass. Assisted by Rosell Knapp Breed, Entertainer, and Dorothy Parker, Accompanist.

Mr. Clarence P. Hadwell was chairman of the committee on the concert and he made a great success of his first attempt as a manager.

Premier Gets Fine Sendoff As He Leaves London to Open Campaign for Re-election in East Fife.

London, April 3.—Premier Asquith was given a big send-off when he departed from London today for his constituency of East Fife, Scotland, where he is to deliver tomorrow a speech in spite of the decision of the Unionists not to oppose his election.

Large crowds of Liberal supporters gathered at the stations, along the line and at every stopping place the premier received addresses from liberal associations, expressing the wish that "the electors of East Fife will send you back to Parliament with the doubled authority to maintain the traditions of the army, the authority of the crown and the power of the people."

A Liberal Pension Policy.

able comment is occasionally heard on the subject of pensions, many feeling that there should have been a grudging in the amount paid out in pensions than there has been since the close of the Civil war. Instead of this the payments have been growing larger, having risen from $150,000,000 in 1912 to $180,300,000, the amount paid out this year.

thought this would seem to indicate that there is something wrong in the pension system, but the explanation is that thousands of pensioners have been removed from the rolls by death, the amounts allowed have been increased in many cases and new pensions have been created, so that the sums paid out by the government for the aid of those who defended it in time of trouble growing of diminishing.

The past year more than 40,000 names have been removed from the pension rolls by death and other causes, and if there had been no changes in other respects $169,150,000 would have sufficed for the pension department for the fiscal year ending July 1 next. But there have been changes and the amount required will be $180,300,000.

se of this increase is the passage of a pension bill providing for the payment of $12 a month, and their children the age of 16 years, will receive $2 a month each. This applies only to widows who have no means of support other than their labor, and whose net income does not exceed $100 a year.

A modest pension, and few will say that it is not deserved by the number of beneficiaries is such that the aggregate to the government will be large. But there is no reason why the dependents of soldiers of these later wars should be aided by the government as well as those who were protectors in the Civil war. In every case the men who served the same government with the same loyalty and devotion, and their survivors are entitled to the same consideration that has been extended to Civil war veterans and their families. A country as great and rich as the United States should afford to deal generously with its defenders and their families, and the fact that it does so should be commended rather than criticised.

rick, the steel magnate, says the business outlook is bright as it might be. He believes the railroads should be able to increase their rates, and that if this is done it will help to improve the business situation. Not all men with this view, yet it is certain that the country will be benefited by unjust treatment of the railroads, which the law makers and the unions have had a strenuous time years past.

Burroughs, the naturalist, is hale and hearty at the age of 70, and he attributes his condition largely to habit of exercise. He has been a great walker all his life, not seeking rest or exercise and health, and there are thousands who have benefited by following his example. The value of exercise as a health builder is not so generally understood as it should be.

MUCH OLD TIME HISTORY

Judge Frank M. Annis Has Pleasant Recollections of Portsmouth and Isles of Shoals.

Judge Frank M. Annis writes The Herald an interesting letter and will prove most interesting to many Portsmouth people. The following paragraphs are taken:

"A copy of your paper, with a cut of the proposed monument to Rev. Tucke to be erected on Star Island has reached me. 'This a consummation devoutly to be wished, and it should be placed over his grave and not near by it, as was placed a little new monument lately.'

"I have been around the United States a great deal but never found a place where there were packed in, so much interesting old time history. We have been visiting old Portsmouth and the Isles since 1907. Every year we think in advance we will try some new place but when the time arrives it is to the Isles we go. They are a fascinating group, and the good people we meet here from year to year, has very much to do with the charm of the place. And we do not forget 'Uncle Oscar,' he is the best asset of the place, and so is Mrs. Thaxter, though so long since departed, but her memory still lives.

PALM SUNDAY.

Many years ago when Charles Spurgeon, the celebrated Baptist preacher, was in the zenith of his fame, the writer was in the habit of occasionally visiting his tabernacle, for although reared as an Episcopalian he delighted in the eloquence and quaint illustrations of the famous preacher by which he used to point the moral and adorn the tale. One of these illustrations was founded upon the well known axiom, 'The road to Hell is easy.'—'Facilis descensus Averno.'

He illustrated it one night by sliding down the banisters attached to the pulpit or platform, and then contrasted it with the far more difficult feat of attaining the celestial regions, by laboriously pulling himself up by the same road.

As Spurgeon was at this time both short and fat, it was a very ludicrous exhibition, but he had method in his madness, in all these eccentric means of attraction as he was enabled to preach a most impressive and magnificent sermon upon this topic.

One Palm Sunday, being seated at dinner with my numerous brothers and sisters, my revered mother always presided as carver, I thought I would endeavor to take a rise out of the dear old lady, who had just returned from hearing a long-winded sermon by Dr. Cadman, the rector of St. George's Church, Southwark, one of the old churches that escaped the fire of London in 1666.

Sermons in those days often exceeded an hour in length, and as the pews were high and enclosed, it was not unusual to hear an occasional snore.

Returning to our muttons, as the French say, I said: 'Mother, what do you think Spurgeon did today, you know it is Palm Sunday.' 'Yes! yes!' she said, excitedly, 'what on earth has that dreadful man done today?'

'Why,' I said, 'Mother, just think of it, he went up into the pulpit with a crown on his head and a palm in his hand.'

'Mother, in holy horror, raised up both her hands, and turning up her eyes said, 'Why that is flat sacrilege.'

'How do you make that out?' I said quickly, seeing that I knew Dr. Cadman did the very same thing today. My mother was very quick-witted and very quick tempered and flushed up to the eyes at being caught in the trap, but quickly recovering laughed heartily. It was lucky I was not seated near her at the table as she had a very heavy hand and I should have probably had my ears boxed.

I recall another tale which happened on a Palm Sunday. The celebrated and eccentric Dean Swift, the famous author of Gulliver's travels, was invited by the rich Merchant Tailors Company of London to give a charity sermon. The day was tempestuous, and the roads were heavy, so that the Dean was very late in arriving.

The Warden of the Company, and also a corpulent alderman of the good city of London, taking him by the arm whispered in his ear as the Dean was about to ascend the pulpit, 'Cut it short, Dean, or our dinner will be spoiled.'

So the witty and somewhat malicious Dean, without much premise, gave the Warden away and said:

'Brethren, the good Warden of this Worshipful Company of Tailors has just informed me that owing to my unfortunately being detained by the weather I am so late, that if I preach the eloquent sermon that I had prepared with such conscientious care, in order to touch your hearts and incidentally your pockets in the noble cause of charity that your dinners will be spoiled, and incidentally his own. So out of consideration for you and bearing in mind the axiom 'That the way to a man's heart is through his stomach' I will give you a very short sermon. The text is: 'He who giveth to the poor, lendeth to the Lord.' Now, Brethren, the sermon can be given in these few words:

'I will repeat the text, 'He who giveth to the poor, lendeth to the Lord.' I cannot only add 'That if you, Brethren, are satisfied with your security, then fish out your gurneas.'

It is related that the wit, the humor and the practical nature of the whole situation not only appealed to the stomachs, but to their hearts and pockets, and that a fabulous amount was collected for their poorer brethren.

WILLIAM H. Y. HACKETT

Sketch of Citizen Who Made Memorable Speech in New Hampshire Senate.

William Henry Young Hackett, who was born at Gilmanton, N. H., Sept. 24, 1830, and died in this city August 9, 1893 was the eldest of six children of Allen Hackett. This elder Hackett a tanner and farmer, was a man of more than ordinary ability, a great reader and a natural politician who had a large following. William's mother was quite a beauty, and a woman of broad mind and a warm heart. She had ambitions for her son and desired him to hold an important place in the world.

When his mother said that she wished to see William Henry something more than a farmer, his father told her the only mark of a good farmer that he had seen in the boy was when he cleared up brush heaps, and he thought it quite likely there might be other careers better fitted for him.

At 12 they sent him to the Town Academy and here he insisted on buying his own books with money earned by cutting and hauling fire wood. His father was perfectly willing and could easily afford any such expense, but William Henry preferred to be independent.

As he desired to remain a long time at the academy—he spent eight years there—he taught school and acted as clerk in a country store to help pay his expenses. His ambition was to be a lawyer and at 20 he began the study of his profession; and when he started out in the world to practice he walked 40 miles to Portsmouth. He wore a homespun suit his mother had woven and made for him; he carried a bundle with one change of clothing, and in his pocket was his fortune, the sum of $3.

While waiting for clients he taught in the high school, and when he was offered a salary of $600 a year to hold the position permanently, and declined it his friends told him he was making the mistake of his life.

But he gradually gained a large practice and in 1861 he was sent to the New Hampshire senate and in the next year was president of the body. One of the strong speeches remembered of Mr. Hackett was in connection with raising troops in the Civil war.

A bill came up for action in regard to this, and one of the senators denounced it as unconstitutional. To this Hackett replied: 'This rebellion is to be crushed and the Union preserved. Terrible as this crisis is, it was as inevitable as the American Revolution, and in its results will be as full of blessings.'

William Hackett had remarkable ability as a banker and understood the science involved in investing money. He believed that large fortunes were made in creating National credit and building new industries. He was for years president of the First National bank of Portsmouth; the institution claimed to be the first National bank organized in the United States.—Boston Globe.

CURRENT OPINION

None But Men Who Are Divinely Appointed Could Have Written the Bible.

Judged by human standards, man is far better prepared to write a Bible now than he was when our Bible was written. The characters whose words and deeds are recorded in the Bible were members of a single race. They lived among the hills of Palestine in a territory scarcely larger than one of our counties. They did not have printing presses, and they lacked the learning of the schools. They had no great libraries to consult, no steamboats to carry them around the world, and make them acquainted with the various centers of ancient civilization. They had no telegraph wires to bring them the news from the ends of the earth and no newspapers to spread before them each morning the doings of the day before.

Science had not unlocked nature's door and revealed the secrets of rocks below and stars above.

From what a scantily supplied storehouse of knowledge they had to draw compared with the unlimited wealth of information at man's command today! And yet these Bible characters grapple with every problem that confronts mankind, from the creation of the world to eternal life beyond the tomb.—William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State.

AN EXPERIMENT FOR DEALERS

Nothing like proving things for yourself, Mr. Dealer.

Suppose you determine for yourself whether it really pays to push goods that are advertised in your home newspapers.

Take an equal number of advertised goods and of goods which are not advertised—and display them on the counters.

Do nothing to push one against the other, but keep careful note of the sales and the inquiries.

See if you do not find that the largest percentage of calls is for the articles with which the newspaper readers of your town are familiar.

Once you have proved this to your own satisfaction, no one will have to urge you to co-operate with the manufacturers who are helping you to make customers for your store.

The Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York, will be glad to hear from manufacturers and distributors interested in newspaper advertising.

Ing. Booklet on request.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Next Monday evening there will be a special memorial service in the Salvation Army Hall, State street, for the late Mrs. Emory Sykes, who passed away March 26. Mrs. Sykes and her husband have had charge of the local corps, for ten, no less than five times. Emory Sykes will be present at the service which will commence at 8 o'clock. The public is invited.

RAILROAD NOTES

The Boston and Maine railroad has leased the theatre and dance hall at a park near Concord to Bob Thatcher of Conn's Theatre, for the summer.

Conductor Daniel Neal and wife, who have been passing the winter in Tampa, Florida leave for their home in Lynn today.

The Pennsylvania railroad has announced 25 passenger trains on lines west of Pittsburgh, and 25 more will be taken off on Sunday. On January 1 there were 13,000 fewer men employed on lines west than on the corresponding date in 1912. There has also been some reduction in working force recently.

In the physical valuation of the Boston and Maine its land titles, totaling over 20,000 will have to be compared at registries of deeds and at state and county offices where records are kept. To meet the Interstate Commerce requirements, the road will have to make about 3000 maps of tracks. It has fairly recent maps of about 1000 miles, but of 1500 miles must make complete surveys. Besides these it will have to print out about 7000 profiles of its tracks to show filling or excavation in construction.

Your Telephone World

"Why, I couldn't find his name in the telephone directory."

This is the reply I get occasionally, when I ask a subscriber why he didn't send a toll or long distance message, and thus quickly settle some important business or family question.

As it would be practically impossible to include in one book all subscribers to the Bell System, each book is designed to include a given radius within which there are numbers frequently called.

If a Bell subscriber who lives outside this radius is wanted, you can reach him quickly and easily even if his name and number do not appear in your telephone directory. Just ask for the Toll Operator and give her the name and address of the person you want to reach. It really makes no difference whether he is in Skowhegan, Sioux City or New York—wherever he is, it is within range of a telephone, he can be reached if he is connected to the Bell System. If you know his number, give it, but this is not necessary except on local calls or Two-Number Toll Calls.

The next time you want to reach some distant friend whose name you cannot find in the telephone directory, just call the Toll Operator and tell her your story. She will try to help you, and may be able to get a message to your friend, even though he has no telephone, and bring him to a Pay Station to talk to you.

GUNMEN HAVE RAY OF HOPE

Governor Glynn Will Grant
Reprieve on Eve of Infliction of Death Penalty.

Albany, N. Y., April 3.—Unless Governor Glynn changes his mind between now and Wednesday, April 7, a reprieve for the four New York gunmen, who are under sentence to die in Sing Sing during the week beginning April 13, will be granted that day.

If granted the stay of execution will be until after the second trial of Charles Becker, the former New York police lieutenant, who with the gunman was found guilty of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, District Attorney Whitman has said that he intends to try Becker a second time as soon as possible, but it is generally believed that his case cannot be completed for several months.

The governor declined today to discuss the case in any way, but the information that he now favors reprieve comes from an authoritative source.

FOURTH DAY OF CONFERENCE

read his report of the work among the French in that city and it was accepted.

Rev. William Warren read the report of the committee on education and it was enthusiastically adopted.

The examination of the members was taken up. B. P. Wilson was called, his character passed and his supernumerary relation confirmed. F. P. Sawyer was called and he was placed in supernumerary relation. J. W. Adams was called, his character passed and his supernumerary relation confirmed. He addressed the Conference. D. C. Libcock was called and his relation confirmed and gave a fine address. W. C. Bartlett was called and delivered an eloquent speech, brief and forceful.

At the afternoon program of the Methodist Conference, a joint session of the ministers and laymen was the principal business and Bishop Hamilton presided.

L. L. Guther and T. R. Hicks brought forward Dr. R. E. Wilder of Whitefield, the retiring President, and Lawyer Lee C. Abbott of Manchester, the incoming President of the Laymen's Association. They were presented to the bishop and the conference. Dr. Wilder addressed the Conference in felicitous manner, followed by the address of the new president, who was equally happy in his remarks outlining briefly the history and policy of the Association. He announced that the Association voted in their morning union to endorse the action of the Conference in reference to the Preachers' Aid Fund. Several other matters were discussed.

Dr. Blake was then called to the chair and it was voted to have Dr. Harry F. Ward of Boston University Secretary of the Social Service Federation deliver his address before the joint session.

At 3 o'clock Dr. H. F. Ward made his address, saying in part:

Dr. H. F. Ward's Address
Dr. Ward told us that the great object of the present movement was first to take out of life the three great evils:

Poverty, Disease, Crime,
the precious remedies for which are, briefly, also a Trinity:

Relief, Medicine, Graft.
This great Social unrest of our time is not the mere rising of human passion, but that great unseen power, that in the beginning brought order out of chaos, is again in his inscrutable way shaping our ends rough, hew them as we may, to form one harmonious whole. The church has been for many years greatly indebted to the unselfish co-operation of the perfect army of laymen, and disinterested women who at risk of life and contumacious have visited, relieved and taught the first principles of religious life in introducing cleanliness in the tenement houses and the slums.

There is a spiritual hunger in the labor movement and a feeling of the need of God, that has made the frequent of religious terms and phrases by the working classes and others resulting in the active missionary work that has been undertaken by members of their own class, to raise the fallen and to strengthen the weak, that is one of the most hopeful signs of the coming universal regeneration.

The great struggle against slavery, long preceding the war, was only the prelude of various other radical changes in the habits and customs of the people, and so by degrees people who rarely thought, much less to remedy the terrible conditions of Vice and misery that existed in their midst sixty years ago, began to realize that active measures must be taken to arrest these evils and we find advocates of temperance such as Father Matthew, and other zealous lovers of their fellowmen turning thousands from besotted drunkards into good citizens and law abiding men.

Modern philanthropy on a large scale took form about this period and we find princely sums being donated for the housing of the poor, the founding of charitable organizations and decorated and are sure to attract much attention.

Nichols' Candy Store

In the Nichols' candy store window the display of Easter novelties and choice confections is one that must appeal to any one that has a sweet tooth. The windows are tastefully arranged and will no doubt attract much attention from the young people as well as the grown-ups.

Margeson Brothers

Margeson Brothers have an up-to-date display of furniture in their show windows and the arrangement and design of the various articles form a very attractive window to look at.

A. P. Wendell & Co.

Then windows of A. P. Wendell & Co. contain a varied assortment of articles usually found in a hardware store. In one window is displayed all kinds of sporting goods including all the requirements for the national game so dear to Young America.

Portsmouth Furniture Co.

The Portsmouth Furniture Co. make their usually attractive window display of standard articles carried by this well known firm. This firm is noted for its usual good window display and the present exhibit is no exception to the rule.

other beneficent enterprises. Within the last ten years another powerful impetus to sweep away these ghastly horrors in the low tenement houses and dens where whole families are herded together in one or two rooms, irrespective of age or sex.

Again, organized vice, which flourishes in these unfortunate places must be rooted out and exterminated.

The Prohibition Party and the church have joined hand in hand in a crusade for general prohibition and although it is possible sometimes to allow one's zeal in a good cause, to outrun discretion and thus hinder the good result sought to be obtained by striking the iron before it is in the proper temper to be moulded into shape, it is certain that the ranks of the abstinents have been so largely augmented of recent years, that their opponents are beginning to look to the joints of their armor.

THE SOUTHERN CROSS IS STILL UNREPORTED— FEARS FOR HER SAFETY

St. John, N. F., April 3.—There is growing apprehension that the sealing steamer Southern Cross went down with all on board in the blizzard of Cape Race Tuesday. She carried a crew of 170 men and was heavily loaded with 17,000 seal skins, trophies of a hunt recently concluded in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Hope of the safety of the vessel, based on a dispatch from Sydney, N. S., stating that a wireless message had been received there reporting the arrival of the Southern Cross at Chatham, N. F., was dissipated later today when the Government, after several hours' inquiry, declared the Sydney report absolutely untrue.

Confirmed in its opinion the Government instituted an extended search for the missing vessel and appealed to the United States for assistance. The Belg Newfoundland Company's steam ship Kyle, which has a good wireless equipment, was chartered for the purpose, and will sail at midnight. The United States Revenue cutter Seneca, which is doing iceberg patrol duty several hundred miles off the Southern Coast, was asked to assist. It was expected that the Seneca would respond as soon as she received necessary orders from Washington.

The Bellaventure went to the aid of her sister sealer, the Newfoundland when 120 hunters from the Newfoundland were caught by the storm while killing seals Tuesday, and were unable to regain their ship. The Stephano and the Florio picked up six or more bodies and two survivors. It is known that 55 bodies and 35 survivors are aboard the Bellaventure, and some 20 men are not accounted for. It is considered that it is scarcely possible that the latter could have survived the long exposure.

Bellaventure is Blocked in Ice
When 90 miles from port the Bellaventure became blocked in the ice off Cape Vanovista, and at noon her captain sent a wireless message stating that it might be Sunday before he could bring in the dead and reward seal hunters. Many of the rescued sealers were reported so ill that the death list was expected to be increased before she made port.

As the recently equipped wireless station for the sealing steamships was partially wrecked in yesterday's gale, communication with the Bellaventure was established today through the Furness Line steamship, Eagle Point. It has been many years since the city has been so stirred over an ocean disaster. Hundreds of people roamed the streets all night, besieging the newspaper offices, the telegraph stations, the Government chambers and the Greenfield Institute, where the survivors will be housed, but news were meagre, while no list of dead was available. Many in the crowd were relatives or intimate friends of those who sailed a month ago on the Newfoundland.

$5000 SUIT AGAINST CITY

Through Attorney Samuel W. Emery the city has become defendant in a suit for $5,000 instituted by Mrs. Lena A. Morrill of No. 439 South street. The suit grew out of the dump which the city maintains in a lot adjoining the property of the plaintiff. In the writ she claims the city has allowed the deposit of garbage in cladding decayed fruit and vegetables and has caused the place to be infested with rats to such an extent that the rodents have damaged her property and that she is living in fear owing to these conditions. She also claims that the fumes from the dump are injurious to her health.

Attorney Emery states that a former claim was presented to the city in February and that a hearing was requested before the mayor and committee on city lands and buildings but no action was taken by the authorities.

The papers were served by Deputy Sheriff W. H. Shaw on City Clerk Frederick E. Drew who at once turned them over to City Solicitor Harry W. Peyster. The case will come up in the April term of superior court at Exeter.

REBELS IN CONTROL OF MORE THAN HALF OF MEXICO

Torreón is Villa's together with great supplies, as food, ammunition, artillery and cotton. Saltillo and Monterey must fall and the way to Zacatecas, the next objective on the road to the City of Mexico, will be open to the Constitutional armies. Villa's capture of the Federal stronghold after one of the bloodiest battles in recent Mexican history, will have an important bearing on the future. Recruits will now flock to his banner in increasing numbers and he soon will have all the men he can arm. The action of President Wilson in raising the embargo on arms which made possible his victory at Torreón will facilitate the equipment of these added hosts by Villa. With the taking of Torreón the Constitutionalists now control an immense wedge-shaped portion of Mexico, with the point resting on Torreón, five hundred miles south of the border, and the top extending along the American boundary from Nogales, Arizona, to a point just west of El Paso, Texas. At Piedras Negras, known also as Ciudad Porfirio Díaz, across the Rio Grande from El Paso, there is a Federal garrison, but it does not now constitute a menace to the rebels. The states now subject to the rebel arms are Chihuahua, Sonora (except the part of Guaymas), most of Coahuila, Durango and Sinaloa. The main Federal force, according to Villa, was wiped out by death, wounds, capture or flight at Gomez Palacio and Torreón. Mazatlan, the Federal port in the state of Sinaloa, by the release of the veteran rebel army at Torreón, also is in a precarious state. Thus by his successful campaign of the last month, General Francisco Villa has practically assured rebel control of the vast territory of the northern states of Mexico, and gained for himself the reputation of being the foremost soldier of the country. General Pablo Gonzales for months has harassed the Federal forces at Monclova and Monterey, and now that the Torreón army is loosed, the Federals must evacuate these points and attempt to retreat to Tampico, the support of the state of Tamaulipas. This state is sprinkled with rebel troops all along the line of retreat, which makes it evident that the Federal garrisons already are threatened with capture by superior numbers. A railroad runs from Torreón to the city of Durango, which is held by the rebels, and the overland journey from that point to Mazatlan, lies through a country which is agriculturally rich and well watered. It would be a pleasant march for an army fresh from the horrors of hunger and thirst in the desert. The railroad, however, is cut at Piedras, where the big steel bridge over the river of that name, was wrecked six months ago. Troops could be moved over it now.

HEART WOUNDS NOT FATAL

Modern Surgeon Operates, and the Results Have Been Satisfactory Almost Beyond Belief.

There seems to be no limit to the wonderful things modern surgery can accomplish. Recently Dr. Francis Stewart of Philadelphia reported five cases in which he had been obliged to sew up the heart after stab wounds. All the patients recovered. One of them lived for five years and then succumbed to pulmonary tuberculosis.

The difficulties of this operation call for wonderful technique and skill. Clots are liable to form and when swept into the circulation the patient dies as if shot through the brain. Constant motion of the organ calls for a quick eye and rapid, steady work. It is interesting to note that at the present time one-half of all such cases coming into the hospitals are saved.

A Parisian surgeon restored heart action in a case of actual death. The patient was killed by an automobile. Believing that something could be done the surgeon ordered the patient to be put upon the operating table half an hour after death had been pronounced. The chest cavity was opened in 50 seconds. A pint of blood was found in the heart sac and a half inches long. This blood was removed, the heart was sewn up, and massage was begun. In a few minutes the pulse was felt at the wrist. The heart continued to beat more than half an hour and then stopped. It was found at autopsy that injuries to other organs had been too great for recovery, which would have been certain had the heart alone been involved.

ENDED SUPREME COURT LEAK

Legal Body Forced to Take Precautions for the Safeguarding of Its Decisions.

"Yes, it is true that supreme court decisions leaked in the old days," remarked an old-time Wall Street broker. "I remember a certain important suit about 20 years ago. It was the great case of those days, as big in its way as the Standard Oil and Tobacco suits of recent date. A week before the decision came down the son of one of the judges came into my office, and I told him that of the nine judges, one would decide 'so and so,' one would refrain from any opinion, and the remaining seven would make a decision 'so and so.'"

"He smiled and went away. Shortly after the decision was rendered, and the matter had turned out as I had foretold, this young man came back to the office. He said his father was greatly worried over the leak in the court, and asked me if I could help them trace the source of my information. I told him what I knew. That one of the official supreme court stenographers had been selling advance copies of the decisions to a very prominent broker of that time. What this broker paid for his information I, of course, do not know; but it was established that I was correct as to where the weak spot was in the court."

"Since then every decision of the supreme court has been written in long hand (one copy), thus making it absolutely impossible for an outsider to get the news in advance. This explains, in part, why it now takes so long for the court to announce its decisions."

Replacing Delusions.
If the popular imagination is to be cured of a point where it has become an attempt at abduction in every "dizzy feeling" or momentary illness suffered by a young woman in a public place, it will be unsafe for a man to offer the slightest civility to any person of the other sex whom he does not happen to know. To assist a woman into a car will subject him to suspicion, and to go to her aid if she faints in the street will render him liable to arrest as a white-slaver.

Anatole France says somewhere that one result of getting rid of old delusions is that they are often replaced with others of worse aspect. This present phase of popular credulity on the subject would deserve to be regarded merely as silly if it were not for the tendency of an exaggeration of the fancied dangers of the evil to confuse the public mind about its real dangers.

Why Parsons Might Not Hunt.
An English clergyman may shoot birds without outraging popular sentiment, why not, then, ride after a fox?

To find the answer we must probably go back to those old days when hard riding meant hard drinking, and when spiritual life was at a low ebb. The "hunting parson" came to be a type of cleric who habitually neglected his duties. It is a happy circumstance that in these days foxhunting need no longer be a reproach because the greater reproach has been removed. A parson who does his work faithfully and well need not be grudging a few hours' gallop in his leisure moments. Indeed, he can do it all the better for the exercise, and win respect for his spiritual teaching by gaining a reputation for manliness and pluck.

Crocus Preferred.
Two poets sat having a frugal glass. "I wish Burns and Poe were with us tonight," said one. "We could have a rollicking time."

"I'd rather have Crocus here," said the other. "He could buy a few drinks. Those other fellows wouldn't 'avo a cent."

COMPULSORY EDUCATION

Although six states in the Union are still without compulsory school-attendance laws, and four others have laws that apply only partially, definite progress during the past decade is reported in a bulletin just issued by the United States Bureau of Education. Since 1905 eight states previously without compulsory laws have adopted them, and it is thought to be a matter of only a few years when compulsory school attendance will be in effect in every state and territory of the United States.

The six states still without compulsory school laws are South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, and Texas. The four local-option states, where the law is in effect in certain counties only, are Maryland, Virginia, Arkansas, and Louisiana.

The bureau's investigation of the subject reveals a close connection between lack of compulsory attendance laws and illiteracy. The states rank in percentage of illiteracy very much in accordance with the length of their compulsory schooling has been in effect, and the completeness with which it is enforced.

The states vary widely in number of years and amount of attendance required each year. The period of compulsory attendance is from 8 to 12 in South Carolina and Virginia. In Alabama it is 8 to 14 or 15. The general tendency is to raise the minimum of compulsory age limit to 16 years or above. In Idaho it is 18. As a general rule, however, children in all these states are allowed to leave school at 14 years of age if they secure employment or have completed the 8th grade in school. There is a constantly increasing effort to safeguard the child between 14 and 16 years of age, the period of special importance for the vocational preparation of most children.

At little as 12 weeks of school attendance during any one year may be required in Virginia, Oklahoma, Delaware, and Nebraska, while in Vermont and other states there must be 150 or more days of actual school attendance every year. Many states require attendance "during the full time school is in session," which may mean anything from 41 to 191 days. Some states secure attendance during long terms by conditioning state appropriations upon the number of days of actual school attendance.

A variety of exemptions are found in the laws of the different states. Connecticut and Arkansas will not enforce the compulsory attendance law "if the parent is not able to provide proper clothing" for the child. Physical or mental incapacity is a general exemption; another customary exemption is remoteness from grounds. Thus the Michigan law exempts children from compulsory attendance between the ages of 12 and 11 while in attendance at confirmation classes for a period not to exceed 5 months in each of the two years.

Necessary factors in the enforcement of compulsory attendance laws are summed up as follows: An annual school census taken by the school authorities; prompt reports of unexcused absences by teachers in public and private schools; properly qualified attendance officers; state agents to see that the laws are enforced; appeal schools for truant and pupil irregularities in attendance; relief for indigent parents having children of compulsory age; a definite annual period of attendance; well-enforced child-labor laws; employment certificate made out for the employer; and proper penalties for all concerned in the enforcement of the law.

How Villa's Rebel Soldiers Tear Up Mexican Railroad Tracks.

The Mexican railroads are in a deplorable condition owing to the destructive tactics of General Villa's rebels. One road alone has lost more than seventy bridges. The illustration shows how the Constitutionalists tear up tracks. A chain is passed under the rails and connected with an engine by an iron pulley. The engine is then backed and up come tracks and ties in a twisted mass of useless debris.

NO PLACE OF ENTERTAINMENT

Campaigning Statesmen Found a Reason for Primitive Fare They Encountered in Noble Mansion.

"When I was making my campaign last fall," said Representative Molds of Kentucky, "I started out to cover a county in which I was but little acquainted. Following, like Polonius, that a fine froit was a valuable asset, I arrayed myself in my best. When I got off the train at the county seat, whereon I was to make my start, I met the candidate for judge on my ticket, and, making known to him my views, I found he agreed with me.

"Accordingly, after putting up in the best quarters at the best hotel in the town, we next morning engaged the handsomest rig the best livery stable could boast, and, with a haughty driver on the box, sallied forth to conquer.

"Night overtook us some miles from the village at which we had expected to put up, but soon after it fell we sped through the gloom an imposing looking mansion with many lights aglow.

"Thrusting the bell, we announced ourselves; whereupon a hospitable gentleman came out and ushered us into a parlor whose modest furnishings seemed out of all keeping with the dignity and size of the mansion.

"When, later, we went to a banquet supper, we were astonished to find a spacious dining-room furnished as barely as the parlor.

"It's the true woman spirit!" exclaimed the candidate for judge, and we got through a most meager meal as best we could.

"We were up before next morning, after sleeping in most primitive quarters, that did injustice to the noble mansion, and after a breakfast on a par with the supper we got in our rig and started away.

"Reaching the summit of a hill some half a mile away, we paused to look back at our night's resting place. Just then a horseman drew up beside us.

"What place is that?" I queried.

"That," he replied, "is the county poorhouse!"

Papain of Great Value.

Papain, the most important chemical constituent of the papaya, is the subject of a recent report by the American consul at Colombo, Ceylon. Probably few of the travelers in tropical countries who enjoy the melon-like papaya realize that this fruit contains one of the most valuable digestive known to medicine, though the natives of the Orient, especially in southern India and Ceylon, use the fruit almost universally to prevent dyspepsia. There are several varieties of Carica papaya, and the papain obtained from the different kinds varies accordingly, the best being that derived from the male trees of a hybrid variety occurring in Ceylon. The digestive and disintegrating properties of papain are shown by the fact that the native cooks in Ceylon wrap tough meat in fresh papaya leaves to make it tender, or apply a small quantity of the milky juice of the plant to the surface of the meat, or put a piece of the green fruit into the raw only when the meat will not boil soft. Papain is said to be capable of digesting ten to twelve times its weight of egg albumen at the temperature of the human body.—Scientific American.

Safe Topic.

In his book, "The Balkan War," Philip Gibbs, the war correspondent, says that the official regulations for war correspondents who were sent out to the Balkans were appallingly severe.

Mr. Gibbs found that he was forbidden to describe the disposition of troops, to give the names of generals, the names and number of the wounded, the success or failure of Bulgarian troops, the state of the soldiers' health, the conditions of the climate, and so on. When the censor had told him all this, Mr. Gibbs asked politely:

"Will you tell me, sir, if there is anything about which we shall be allowed to write?"

The censor thought deeply for a moment and then answered quite gravely:

"There is much interest in Bulgarian literature."

"Perhaps," Mr. Gibbs suggested sarcastically, "I may also be permitted to describe the song of the birds?"

"By all means," said the censor, cordially.

Canadian Nicknames.
Our overseas brethren are keen on nicknames, remarks the London Chronicle. Take Canadians, for example. The other day I read a short leading article in a dominion newspaper in which reference was made to a neighboring town as the "Ambitious city." And never an explanation was given as to which city was meant. To me, and to all others who have had real estate circulars sent them, every city in Canada is ambitious, and it was only after some inquiry that I found that the special city referred to was Hamilton.

I discovered also that nearly every city has its nickname. Winnipeg is the "Prairie city," Toronto is the "Queen city," Kingston the "Limestone city," Quebec the "Ancient capital" and Montreal is the "Metropolitan city." Even provinces have been nicknamed by the Canadians. Do you know which is the "Postage stamp province?" It is quite easy to discover. Look at the map of Canada, and particularly at Manitoba. Surely its shape indicates that it is the province meant.

WANTS POLICE TO CATCH DOGS

It is likely that the police department will chase the dogs this year.
Mayor Yeaton believes that the work should be done by the officers and the money usually spent for a special officer be saved. The mayor consulted Chief Hurley on the matter on Friday and it is understood that the matter will come before the police board for action at the meeting tonight. The money generally allowed for the work is $200.

The dancing party of the Tacoma men at Freeman's Hall on Friday evening was one of the best managed af-years. The first visit of the ship to this port proves that her company are a credit to the service. They have made many friends in all quarters since they arrived and they regret in

That Mrs. Mary Campbell has been appointed matron at the dances at Freeman's Hall.

the Portsmouth and Dover railroad hope the late train at night will be back on the schedule on the next change of time.

That the veteran firemen say the boom launched for the big muster at the spread a few nights ago has been very effective.

That they believe they can pull it off
in Portsmouth next September.

That "stove pipe" rumors on the Boston and Maine are numerous.

That the groundhog must have come out and taken another look and sneaked back to his den.

That milliners and tailors would be more pleased with the weather man if he would let go of winter and give them something that looks and feels like spring.

That the tower end of Market street, known as Noble's Island should be repaired before an accident occurs there.

That 440 pupils in the Concord High school made an orderly exit in 70 sec-

That this is certainly good work for the Concord school.

tion was engaged Friday in making arrangements for the issuance of become operative on the first day of

PORTSMOUTH THEATRE PROGRAMME

For Friday and Saturday

Abide With Me—Pathe Drama

The rich young son is a spendthrift with bad habits and is idolized by his companions. He meets by chance, a pretty girl coming out of church. He resolves to give up his bad habits to make her happy.

The Interference of Broncho Billy—Essanay Drama.

A gripping western picture, featuring
Mr. G. W. Anderson. This is not a picture for a weak heart.

ACT—Joe Egan and His Dog.

Andy, the Actor—Edison Comedy.

He joins a one night stand show and appears as the "Hero of Battle-snake Valley" but the stage looks like a vegetable show now.

ACT—Brown Brothers.—Comedians.

Blame the Tailor—Biograph Comedy.

A fetching tailor-made dress on a pretty girl causes all the trouble in this film. This is a laugh producer.

Shorty Makes a Bet—On the same reel.

He boasts and wagers that he will capture a criminal that a reward is offered for. He wins, but how? Very funny.

The Warning—Essanay Drama

Her signal, made of a broom and a table cloth, proved the villain's undoing. Some exciting scenes in a house is thrilling.

Monday and Tuesday—"The Weaker Brother"—Two parts.

I WONDER

If this Jack the hatter is a new one the girls are seeing in different parts of the city?

How it is that the women see this gent just so often in different sections of the city?

Why some of them that have been carried by this naughty man don't tell the police instead of causing more fright among the women by telling the neighbors?

What the navy yard will do for ship work when the Tacoma and Leonidas sail?

If some of the junk dealers will ever be satisfied with the rules of the city governing their business?

If the people who visit a theatre and continually drum with their feet on the floor and on the backs of the seats with their hands, realize that the drummer in the orchestra is paid for that work?

If the Elks won't have some big night on the opening of the new quarters?

If the New Castle man has canned those bees he found last month in a cherry tree?

When the new woman police officer will go on the job?

What this city will catch for a circus
the coming summer?

If some of the old teams won't be among the missing in the Sunset
League this season?
